THE TRAGEDY OF DEATH

George S. Knight, the Great Actor, Takes the Leading Role in Life's Greatest Drama.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—George S. Knight, the actor, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Sloan, in this city. Mr. Sloan was stricken with paralysis four years ago in California and has not been on the stage since that time. Mr. Knight's real name was George Sloan. He began his theatrical career on the variety stage. About twelve years ago he married Sophie Worrell, of the famous Worrell sisters, and they subsequently starred together in "Otto." The play was a great success and they made a great deal of money. Much of this was lost in an effort to float Bronson Howard's play, "Baron Rudolph," which had been written for Knight. Mr. and Mrs. Knight also attained success in "Over the Garden Wall," but when that was exhausted they were unable to obtain an income from starring and Knight was compelled to seek at the hands of the profession and accept an engagement from a manager. In 1883 Mr. Knight was afflicted with a malady which was in some degrees similar to that which killed John McCullough and Bartley Campbell and compelled Tony Hart to leave the stage. He became occupied and forgetful and in November of that year was compelled to place himself, under the care of physicians at his residen...

...tion, which has come back on him. He wants some one here to send him money enough to take him to Cincinnati, his old home, where he says he could die in peace. The money will be sent.

ORE THIEVES SHOT.

Texas Rangers and Mexican Robbers Have a Battle—Three of the Latter Killed.

MARFA, Texas, Jan. 15.—News reaches here from Shafer, this county, of a battle between a detachment of Captain Jones' ranger company, under Sergeant J. G. Hughes, and a band of Mexicans, who were stealing ore from the Presidio mine. This mine has some very rich ore, and for some time parties have been stealing ore and taking it across the river to smelt. Sergeant Hughes caught the thieves in the act, and called on them to surrender. The demand was answered by a volley from Winchesters. Hughes and his men replied with a volley. The thieves fled, leaving three of their number dead. One of the dead is a brother of Antonio Garrazco, who assassinated a deputy sheriff in this county six months ago.

WILL DISBAND.

The Burlesque Company Which Was Crippled in the Monon Wreck Will Quit the Road.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 15.—The City Club Burlesque company, which was so disabled in the wreck, and which was to have been in Chicago this week, is still here, quartered at the Nutt house. Mr. Moaco, the manager, says the company will be compelled to disband on account of the serious injuries of so many of his people, numbering in all twenty-three. Miss Rokey, the Hungarian lady who was mangled and killed in the wreck, was burried here yesterday in the Catholic cemetery. Many of the victims of the wreck are now in a critical condition. Roadmaster Cornwall, who was so seriously injured in the wreck on Tuesday, was removed yesterday on a stretcher to his home at Bloomington, Ind. His condition is critical.

BASE BALL NEWS.

Columbus Finally Joins the Western League.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 15.—The meeting which was called to take place here next Monday for the purpose of organizing a central league, has been declared off, and the scheme abandoned. This means that Messrs. J. A. Williams and Gus Schmeltze, who are at the head of the new Columbus, and who were also at the head of the proposed central scheme, have decided to unite with ...

...ly resolved to close the protracted strike. A previous decision to the same effect was never enforced, but it is now definitely decided that the strike shall be forthwith declared off.

TRAIN DERAILED

And Two Actors Perish in the Fire Which Followed—The Scene Described.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 15.—News has just reached here of an accident on the Northern Pacific, near Brainerd. A sleeping car burned up and two people perished. The train was a special containing the members of the Andrews Opera company. It was derailed between Duluth and Brainerd and two members of the company were burned to death.

BRAINERD, Minn., Jan. 15.—A horrible accident occurred on the Northern Pacific railroad at Jonesville, the first station east of here, at 3:50 o'clock this morning. A special train, consisting of the sleeping car "Petrel" and a baggage car, was running as the second section of No. 9, the regular train from Superior. The special left South Superior at 11:30 last evening, having on board the Andrews Opera company going from Duluth to Grand Forks. The train was running at the usual rate of speed, when it struck a broken rail.

The sleeper left the track and went down an embankment, landing bottom side up. The flames broke out from all parts of the car immediately and burn-

A Chinese Murderer, Dangles at the End of a Rope.

SICK UNTO DEATH.

The Catholic Priest Who Ran Away From Elkhart in a Hospital.

ELKHART, Ind., Jan. 15.—Father Wm. Kroeger, the Catholic priest who ran away from here a few weeks ago, leaving debts to the amount of considerable over $20,000, has written here, stating that he is an inmate of a Canadian hospital, sick unto death and without any funds whatever. He says he does not expect to recover, as he has the grip, coupled with an old complica-

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 15.—W... ...ver's jewelry store, No. 46 Federal street, Allegheny, Pa., was the scene of a bold robbery early last evening. A man, as yet unknown, walked rapidly up to the jewelry window, broke the glass with a coupling pin, and seized a tray of valuable diamond rings. The night watchman of the building, hearing the crash, started in pursuit of the robber, but the latter made good his escape. The rings stolen were valued at $1,500.

A THIEVING SOLDIER.

Lieutenant Dodge Indicted for Robbing a Store.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Jan. 15.—The grand jury yesterday found a true bill against Lieutenant James T. Dodge, charged with burglarizing Edward Donsher's store here several months ago. Lieutenant Dodge is a nephew of Gail Hamilton, and a cousin of Mrs. James G. Blaine. He will be courtmartialled as soon as the army can get possession of his person from the civil authorities.

Two Children Burned to Death.

AFFAIRS AT ASCENSION.

Riot and Bloodshed Give Place to Peace and Quiet.

DEMING, N. M., Jan. 1.—The revolt at Ascension has been suppressed and civil law is once more in force. This information has reached here by the arrival of courriers, who say that the stone mill occupied by the rebels was surrounded by troops on Tuesday and that they surrendered after some parleying. The captives number over 100, but Sais, the leader, escaped. The men will be tried and no doubt, the principals will be shot. No further trouble is expected and business has once more been resumed. More troops are now on their way to Ascension and the town will then have a garrison of 400 men.

DEFEATED PRINTERS.

The German Type Setters Declare Their Strike at an End.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Meetings were last night held by the striking printers of Berlin, Liepsic, Dresden and other cities of Germany at which it was final-

...who for years has been engineer of the Zollinger engine, relinquished his duties to take the position of superintendent of fire alarm and police patrol lines. Fred Armack has been appointed to succeed him and George Trautman formerly extra driver and hose man has been made driver of the engine. Chris Royhans, formerly driver of the engine, has been appointed to assist Superintendent Schroeder in looking after the lines.

He was Crooked.

LISBON, Jan. 15.—Marquis da Foe, a member of the railroad board, has been arrested and charged with financial irregularities. He was released upon furnishing bail in £56,000.

A company of national guards, to be known as the Auburn rifles has been organized at Auburn by Major J. K. Gore, of Elkhart. There are fifty men in the company and their average age is about twenty-three years. The officers are: A. L. Kuhlman, captain; C. F. DuWan, first lieutenant: C. M. Kemp, second lieutenant and J. F. Lahnum, sergent.

MRS. Kavanaugh, of North Harrison street, is dangerously ill with la grippe. At last accounts she was unconscious. Mr. Kavanaugh, also, has an attack of the same malady.

PENSION LAWS.

Congress Will Revise Them and Reduce the Annual Expenditure Nearly $100,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—An attack is to be made in the present congress on the pension laws with the hope of reducing the annual expenditures in this direction from $138,000,000 to $38,000,000 or at most $50,000,000. The movement will not be inaugurated by the members of congress, but will be the work of an organized body of loyal soldiers who believe that reform is necessary, and that millions are being expended annually for pensions to men who have no right to the money. The cardinal principles of this organization is a competency to those permanently disabled or unable to earn their living, and nothing to the men who can either by their hands or their brains support themselves and their families. The organization which proposes this revolution in pension matters had its conception in Washington where it has been working for some time quietly but effectively. It is known as the "Society of Loyal Volunteers." The association believes in teaching and maintaining, among other things these lessons: That the war was for the preservation of the union and not for conquest or revenge; that the volunteer armies were inspired by no hope of individual gain or glory; that many persons as loyal and brave as those who entered the service were prevented from doing so by circumstances that did not hinder their companions; that victories were gained by the loyalty, courage, endurance and the inspiration of the whole people; that armies were recruited from all classes and vocations; that the vast majority of the volunteers were men of good character, but some were bad, and that this class of men do not today hesitate to live on the generous gratitude of the people through payments made on pensions obtained by fraud or at the expense of honor. That men who had the intelligence, courage, and persistent energy to win battles by virtue of these same qualities of character are able to compete successfully for the rewards of civil life with those who did not enter the service; that many who sustained severe wounds and almost all who retained their health suffered no impairment of their ability to care for the support of themselves and their families.

GRIEF STRICKEN ENGLAND.

High and Low, Rich and Poor, All Classes Mourn for the Royal Family.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—From one end of Great Britain to the other, great preparations are being made by all classes of people, those in civil life as well as those occupying official station, to give a final manifestation of their sympathy with the royal family and respect for its illustrious dead by attending the funeral of the late heir presumptive. The evidences are now that about every city, town and many smaller communities of the country will, if opportunity favors, be represented by delegations regularly appointed to attend the last ceremonies. At the various railroad offices it is learned that the number of inquiries made, even before the date and place of interment has been settled, indicates an extraordinary desire on the part of great numbers of people to participate in the last honors to the dead prince. Should the remains, however, be conveyed direct from Sandringham to Windsor it is improbable that any great number of those anxious to take a part, however humble, in the funeral program can be gratified. If it is decided that there shall be no state funeral the delegations, which are expected to be appointed by the various cities, will probably as far as possible, group themselves at the stations along the route between Sandringham and Windsor. A dispath from Cairo says that at a meeting of the British residents here Sir Evenlen Baring, the British minister, presiding, a resolution of sympathy with the prince and princess of Wales and with the queen, on the death of the duke of Clarence and Avindale, was passed yesterday.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—When the telegram announcing the death of the duke of Clarence and Avondale was handed to the ex-Empress Frederick yesterday she was much affected, weeping bitterly and long. It is quite probable that she will not journey to England to attend the funeral. The emperor is expected to return to Berlin, when it is believed he will designate Prince Henry to be present at the royal obsequies as the representative of the German imperial family.

LONDON, Jan 15.—An unofficial report has been issued which announces that the princess of Wales and Princess May are prostrated with grief at the death of the duke of Clarence.

WAS IT SUICIDE.

Strange Death of a Stranger in a Cleveland Hotel.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 15.—Late Tuesday night a well-dressed young man arrived at the Prospect house and registered as G. A. Monaghan, Chicago. At noon Wednesday he was found in his room dead. A stranger called at the morgue early Thursday morning and identified the body as that of a son of William Monaghan, United States consul at Hamilton, Ont. Last night his father arrived in Cleveland for the purpose of taking his body home for interment. Coroner Bell began his inquest in the case yesterday, but nothing was developed which would confirm the first theory that suicide was committed. A post mortem examination will probably be held today and the result will tell whether the death was caused by poisoning.

ALLEGED BRIBERY.

The Grand Jury Examine Witnesses With a View of Indicting Senator John Sherman.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 15.—Great excitement prevails in this city caused by the summoning of a large number of the Ohio legislature before the grand jury of Franklin county to give testimony in the Sherman bribery case. There is great excitement and consternation among the members, and the house adjourned yesterday afternoon in order to give the members an opportunity to answer their subpoenas. It is given out on good authority that there is now before the grand jury conclusive proof in six distinct cases, and that John Sherman and his two chief lieutenants, William H. Hahn and Jake Donaldson, will be indicted. The results of the deliberations of the grand jury are awaited with breathless interest. Many highly sensational features are expected.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 14.—Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, passed through this city last night and stated in an interview that he would withdraw from politics after this term. He says he has now received more than any other man in the history of the country, and will never enter another political fight. He says Foraker cannot control the Ohio delegation.

TWO KILLED.

Pittsburg Limited, No. 9, Runs Into a Street Car at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—A surface railway crossing horror occurred last night at Forty-seventh street, on the Chicago-Pittsburg and Fort Wayne tracks. An inbound Fort Wayne train struck a Forty-seventh street horse car of the Chicago Street Railway company. Two passengers on the horse car were killed instantly. Thirteen other passengers were injured. The train was the "limited," known as No. 9, and the crash was at a point where there is a net work of fourteen different tracks. The catastrophe was due to the combined carelessness or stupidity of three men, H. L. Albrecht, the crossing keeper; Jos. Flannigan, the conductor of the street car, and Michael, the car driver. It was the street car conductor's duty to run ahead and see that the tracks were clear, but whether he did this is not apparent. Albrecht, the crossing keeper, says he did not. It is certain they were clear on either side, the electric lights lit up the road for a mile in each direction, and yet Albrecht did not see the limited bearing down on his crossing at the rate of forty miles an hour. He raised the fatal gates, the driver, Craigin, whipped up his horses, and in an instant was on the tracks just in front of the speeding train. The engineer pulled his whistle valve, the crossing keeper, driver and conductor looked around for the first time, and screamed a too tardy warning. There was a crash, a score of human voices raised in the agony of terror, and the street car and its burden of fourteen people were hurled, splintered and crushed, a distance from the track. Scores of people from surrounding houses rushed out, and a saloon building was transformed into a temporary hospital. The street car was mashed into a mass of splintered wood, fragments of glass and twisted bars of iron. In the wreckage were a half dozen battered and bleeding human forms. These were tenderly carried to the saloon, while their fellow passengers less seriously injured were helped to the same place. All around were blood-stained bandages. The corpse of one of the women passengers was found across the pilot of the locomotive, one hundred yards from the street car, when the limited was brought to a standstill. The trainmen were considered blameless by the police. The crossing keeper and street car conductor have been arrested. The driver is said to be in hiding.

RETRENCHMENT.

Congressman Holman Submits a Resolution to Economize Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The house of representatives of the Fifty-second congress yesterday has not followed the aggressive leadership of Chairman Holman of the appropriations committee in declaring that the appropriations of the congress shall be strictly limited to the moneys necessary to carry on the several departments of the government. For four hours a fierce warfare of debate waged in the house today over the proposition of the gentleman from Indiana, and when adjournment was taken Mr Holman had so far receded from the strict spirt of his resolution as to ask that the previous question be reconsidered in order that he might consider the advisability of tomorrow accepting an amendment modifying the sweeping declaration of the second clause of the resolution.

In the house this morning Mr. Holman stated that on reflection he considered his retrenchment resolution sufficiently comprehensive and therefore withdrew his motion to reconsider the vote by which the previous question was ordered. A yea and nay vote on the resolution followed.

The first resolution was adopted, 125 to ...

Killed in a Wreck.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Jan. 15.—In a wreck on the Ohio Southern railroad at Bainbridge, fifty miles from here, last night Harry Reese, a brakeman, and Engineer Cochrane, of this city, were killed. The train rolled down a grade and twenty cars were wrecked.

JINGLING BELLS.

Merry Whirls in the Moonlight Over Snow-capped Country Roads—Several Parties.

Opportunities for enjoying sleigh rides have been scarce indeed this season, consequently it is no wonder that the sleighing party given under the auspices of the West End pedro club last evening should be regarded as a rare treat. The party was under the management of M. W. Fay, Alex Seabrease and Bob Carnahan. The drive was made to New Haven, where a lunch was served in the faultless style of Mine Host Cook. Returning to Fort Wayne the party stopped at M. W. Fay's bachelor apartments, where dancing was indulged in to the strains of Reineke's orchestra. The party consisted of Mrs. Thomas Pierce, of Grand Rapids, chaperone; Misses Grace Bass, Alice Woodworth, Agnes Seabrease, Alice Ward, Constance Wilder, Grace Huxford, of New York city; Bessie Baldwin, and Messrs. Robert Carnahan, Alex and McLean Seabrease, Ed Woodworth, John Morris, jr., Mont Fay and Harold Joss.

One of the jolliest sleighing parties of the season was the one given last evening arranged by the members of the senior class of the Central Grammar school. The merry coasters were Misses Louise Heller, Helen Spencer, Lona McElfatrick, Hattie Dyche, Kate Beebe, Nettie Strack, Cora Conover, Lola Conover and Messrs. Fred Urbahns, Bert Schmitz, Fred Kollock, John Dalman, Charley King, Frank Biddle, Walter Cook, Ros Trainer and Walton Clark.

A sleighing party was given last evening in honor of the daughter of Mrs. Anna Tyler.

The Misses Hamilton gave a delightful sleighing party last evening.

Miss Tillie Homeyer, of Dewald street and Miss Bertha Welton, of Butler street, gave a very enjoyable sleighing party Wednesday evening.

A party of west side young ladies will give a coasting party at Hayden's South Wayne hill this evening.

A sleighing party of "ye olden tyme" was merrily indulged in last Tuesday evening by a number of young ladies, who attired themselves in quaint costumes of the Revolutionary period. The affair was given in compliment to Miss Ona Roseboom, of Walnut street and it was a grand success. The participants were the Misses Gusta Steffen, Bertha Welten, Ona Roseboom, Jen... ...len, Nettie Kabbage, Kate... Louise Homeyer, Mamie Con... ...ma Knapp, Maggie Hundine... Coleman.

Prof. A. Joost, the well known and popular music teacher, was pleasantly surprised last evening at his home on West Jefferson street by Rev. Rettig and his family and a sleigh load of children from the Reformed orphan's home. They drove up to the house while the professor was away and took charge of the home. Word was sent to him that a man was at the house who wished to purchase a piano, and hurrying home, he was surprised to find his guests. He adapted himself to the situation and the evening was very pleasantly spent with music and an oyster supper which Prof Joost arranged for after the guests arrived.

AN OLD PISTOL,

But It Went Off, Burying a Bullet in a Child's Leg.

It was an old rusty pistol that went off and buried a bullet in the leg of the six-year-old boy of William Bishop, of Elm street, in Nebraska, but probably it was a kind providence that sped the bullett from a fatal course and saved the little fellow's life. The pistol had been laid by and forgotten for years and it remained for this innocent to be the target of the twenty-two calibre cartridge ball it contained. Dr. George B. Stemen extracted the bullet and the boy is doing well today.

SUPT. FELTS ILL.

Confined to the Bed at Leo—Exposure of a Long Drive.

George F. Felts, superintendent of the Allen county schools, is confined to the bed at Leo and is quite ill as a result of exposure. Mr. Felts drove fourteen miles against a severe snow storm on Tuesday, to pay an official visit to the schools, and he contracted a very bad cold, which settled on his lungs. He is at the Leo hotel under the care of physicians.

A BRIDGE IN DANGER.

The North Wear Trestle Forced Out of Position—Trains Delayed.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 15.—The North Wear trestle bridge which crosses the Merrimac and which has been carried away once this fall by high water and anchor ice has again swung down stream several inches, rendering unsafe for trains to cross. Should the ice above the dam go out and pack in above the trestle, as it promises to do, with the river at its present height, the bridge will be swept away.

THE TRAGEDY OF DEATH

George S. Knight, the Great Actor, Takes the Leading Role in Life's Greatest Drama.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan 15—George S Knight, the actor, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs Rebecca Sloan, in this city Mr. Sloan was stricken with paralysis four years ago in California and has not been on the stage since that time. Mr. Knight's real name was George Sloan He began his theatrical career on the variety stage About twelve years ago he married Sophie Worrell, of the famous Worrell sisters, and they subsequently starred together in "Otto." The play was a great success and they made a great deal of money Much of this was lost in an effort to float Bronson Howard's play, "Baron Rudolph," which had been written for Knight. Mr and Mrs. Knight also attained success in "Over the Garden Wall," but when that was exhausted they were unable to obtain an income from starring and Knight was compelled to seek at the hands of the profession and accept an engagement from a manager In 1884 Mr Knight was afflicted with a malady which was in some degrees similar to that which killed John McCullough and Bartley Campbell and compelled Tony Hart to leave the stage He became occupied and forgetful and in November of that year was compelled to place himself, under the care of physicians at his residence, in West Orange, N. J. His chief difficulty was in his speech and he frequently was unable to speak his lines with the rapidity demanded by the performance. He soon rallied, however, and after a few months' rest resumed his professional duties.

CRUISER NUMBER THREE.

The Monterey Will Soon be Ready for Business.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The first rivet was driven yesterday in cruiser number three at the Union Iron works. Capt. Schley and many navy and army officials were present. They were all pleased with the way work is being pushed on the Monterey. She is all ready for her trial trip except the armor plating The boilers, engines, all machinery, everything but the armor plate and guns are in place In case of war the armor plate can be quickly put in place. It was the government's intention to test the plate before putting it on the vessel, but this will probably be dispensed with. If the plate were here the Monterey could be ready for the trip by the first of next month

CAIRO, Ill, Jan. 15.—Tuesday a local paper printed a letter written by James C Lighner to his wife in St. Louis, in which he threatened to drown himself. The facts were not ascertained until it returned

BASE BALL NEWS.

Columbus Finally Joins the Western League.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 15 The meeting which was called to take place here next Monday for the purpose of organizing a central league, has been declared off, and the scheme abandoned. This means that Messrs. J A Williams and Gus Schmeltze, who are at the head of the new Columbus, and who were also at the head of the proposed central scheme, have decided to unite with the western league. The reason for their action lies in the fact that the National league has exerted an influence on the eastern cities in favor of an eastern league, and they have not taken hold of the central league idea with any degree of enthusiasm. The magnates of the big league favor two strong minor leagues, one in the west and one in the east. Columbus will at once join the western league, a meeting of which is announced to be held in Chicago the latter part of next week

During the struggle at the latter place, a number of the riotous anarchists were wounded, and thirty were taken prisoners.

TRAIN DERAILED

And Two Actors Perish in the Fire Which Followed—The Scene Described.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn, Jan. 15—News has just reached here of an accident on the Northern Pacific, near Brainerd A sleeping car burned up and two people perished The train was a special containing the members of the Andrews Opera company It was derailed between Duluth and Brainerd and two members of the company were burned to death

BRAINERD, Minn, Jan 15—A horrible accident occurred on the Northern Pacific railroad at Jonesville, the first station east of here, at 3.50 o'clock this morning A special train, consisting of the sleeping car "Petrel" and a baggage car, was running as the second section of No. 9, the regular train from Superior The special left South Superior at 11 30 last evening, having on board the Andrews Opera company going from Duluth to Grand Forks The train was running at the usual rate of speed, when it struck a broken rail

The sleeper left the track and went down an embankment, landing bottom side up The flames broke out from all parts of the car immediately and burned so rapidly the crew could do nothing but extricate the passengers from the wreck. When all were believed to have been rescued a search revealed the fact that Mrs Ed Andrews, wife of the proprietor of the troupe, and her nurse, Miss Lillie Wallace, were missing By this time the flames were burning so fiercely that it was impossible to get near the car.

When the flames were finally subdued the remains were discovered, so badly burned that it was impossible to identify one from the other Mrs Andrews and Miss Wallace had occupied an upper berth at the forward end of the car and were wrapped in the bed clothes. There was no outcry from this berth while the work of rescuing the injured was progressing and it is supposed that both occupants were killed instantly.

The rapidity with which the flames caught hold and spread through the car caused no little surprise. It is not known whether they caught from the lamps or stove, but it is supposed from the rapidity with which they spread that they caught from the lamps. Twenty passengers, more or less severely injured, were taken from the wreck. Physicians were sent from Brainerd on a special train

The injured were brought back to this city and taken to the Northern Pacific hospital as soon as possible. Here they were given the best of care and medical attention. The hospital is one of the best in the United States and the injured will not suffer from want of care. Mrs. Andrews' stage name was Nannie Wilkinson.

PENSION LAWS.

Congress Will Revise Them and Reduce the Annual Expenditure Nearly $100,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan 15—An attack is to be made in the present congress on the pension laws with the hope of reducing the annual expenditures in this direction from $138,000,000 to $58,000,000 or at most $50,000,000. The movement will not be inaugurated by the members of congress, but will be the work of an organized body of loyal soldiers who believe that reform is necessary, and that millions are being expended annually for pensions to men who have no right to the money The cardinal principles of this organization is a competency to those permanently disabled or unable to earn their living, and nothing to the men who can either by their hands or their brains support themselves and their families The organization which proposes this revolution in pension matters had its conception in Washington where it has been working for some time quietly but effectively It is known as the "Society of Loyal Volunteers." The association believes in teaching and maintaining, among other things these lessons. That the war was for the preservation of the union and not for conquest or revenge, that the volunteer armies were inspired by no hope of individual gain or glory; that many persons as loyal and brave as those who entered the service were prevented from doing so by circumstances that did not hinder their companions, that victories were gained by the loyalty, courage, endurance and the inspiration of the whole people; that armies were recruited from all classes and vocations, that the vast majority of the volunteers were men of good character, but some were bad, and that this class of men do not today hesitate to live on the generous gratitude of the people through payments made on pensions obtained by fraud or at the expense of honor. That men who had the intelligence, courage, and persistent energy to win battles by virtue of these same qualities of character are able to compete successfully for the rewards of civil life with those who did not enter the service; that many who sustained severe wounds and almost all who retained their health suffered no impairment of their ability to care for the support of themselves and their families

GRIEF STRICKEN ENGLAND.

High and Low, Rich and Poor, All Classes Mourn for the Royal Family.

LONDON, Jan, 15.—From one end of Great Britain to the other, great preparations are being made by all classes of people, those in civil life as well as those occupying official station, to give a final manifestation of their sympathy with the royal family and respect for its illustrious dead by attending the funeral of the late heir presumptive The evidences are now that about every city, town and many smaller communities of the country will, if opportunity favors, be represented by delegations regularly appointed to attend the last ceremonies. At the various railroad offices it is learned that the number of inquiries made, even before the date and place of interment has been settled, indicates an extraordinary desire on the part of great numbers of people to participate in the last honors to the dead prince. Should the remains, however, be conveyed direct from Sandringham to Windsor it is improbable that any great number of those anxious to take a part, however humble, in the funeral program can be gratified. If it is decided that there shall be no state funeral the delegations, which are expected to be appointed by the various cities, will probably as far as possible, group themselves at the stations along the route between Sandringham and Windsor. A dispath from Cairo says that at a meeting of the British residents here Sir Evenlen Baring, the British minister, presiding, a resolution of sympathy with the prince and princess of Wales and with the queen, on the death of the duke of Clarence and Avondale, was passed yesterday.

BERLIN, Jan 15—When the telegram announcing the death of the duke of Clarence and Avondale was handed to the ex-Empress Frederick yesterday she was much affected, weeping bitterly and long It is quite probable that she will not journey to England to attend the funeral The emperor is expected to return to Berlin, when it is believed he will designate Prince Henry to be present at the royal obsequies as the representative of the German imperial family

LONDON, Jan 15—An unofficial report has been issued which announces that the princess of Wales and Princess May are prostrated with grief at the death of the duke of Clarence

Coroner Bell began his inquest in the case yesterday, but nothing was developed which would confirm the first theory that suicide was committed A post mortem examination will probably be held today and the result will tell whether the death was caused by poisoning

ALLEGED BRIBERY.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan 15—Great excitement prevails in this city caused by the summoning of a large number of the Ohio legislature before the grand jury of Franklin county to give testimony in the Sherman bribery case There is great excitement and consternation among the members, and the house adjourned yesterday afternoon in order to give the members an opportunity to answer their subpoenas. It is given out on good authority that there is now before the grand jury conclusive proof in six distinct cases, and that John Sherman and his two chief lieutenants, William H. Hahn and Jake Donaldson, will be indicted The results of the deliberations of the grand jury are awaited with breathless interest Many highly sensational features are expected

PITTSBURG, Pa, Jan 14—Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, passed through this city last night and stated in an interview that he would withdraw from politics after this term He says he has now received more than any other man in the history of the country, and will never enter another political fight He says Foraker cannot control the Ohio delegation.

TWO KILLED.

Pittsburg Limited, No. 9, Runs Into a Street Car at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—A surface railway crossing horror occurred last night at Forty-seventh street, on the Chicago-Pittsburg and Fort Wayne tracks An inbound Fort Wayne train struck a Forty seventh street horse car of the Chicago Street Railway company. Two passengers on the horse car were killed instantly. Thirteen other passengers were injured. The train was the "limited," known as No 9, and the crash was at a point where there is a net work of fourteen different tracks. The catastrophe was due to the combined carelessness or stupidity of three men, H. L. Albrecht, the crossing keeper, Jos. Flannigan, the conductor of the street car, and Michael, the car driver. It was the street car conductor's duty to run ahead and see that the tracks were clear, but whether he did this is not apparent. Albrecht, the crossing keeper, says he did not It is certain they were clear on either side, the electric lights lit up the road for a mile in each direction, and yet Albrecht did not see the limited bearing down on his crossing at the rate of forty miles an hour. He raised the fatal gates, the driver, Craigin, whipped up his horses, and in an instant was on the tracks just in front of the speeding train. The engineer pulled his whistle valve, the crossing keeper, driver and conductor looked around for the first time, and screamed a too tardy warning There was a crash, a score of human voices raised in the agony of terror, and the street car and its burden of fourteen people were hurled, splintered and crushed, a distance from the track Scores of people from surrounding houses rushed out, and a saloon building was transformed into a temporary hospital. The street car was mashed into a mass of splintered wood, fragments of glass and twisted bars of iron. In the wreckage were a half dozen battered and bleeding human forms. These were tenderly carried to the saloon, while their fellow passengers less seriously injured were helped to the same place. All around were blood-stained bandages. The corpse of one of the women passengers was found across the pilot of the locomotive, one hundred yards from the street car, when the limited was brought to a standstill. The trainmen were considered blameless by the police. The crossing keeper and street car conductor have been arrested The driver is said to be in hiding.

RETRENCHMENT.

Congressman Holman Submits a Resolution to Economize Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Jan 15—The house of representatives of the Fifty second congress yesterday has not followed the aggressive leadership of Chairman Holman of the appropriations committee in declaring that the appropriations of the congress shall be strictly limited to the moneys necessary to carry on the several departments of the government. For four hours a fierce warfare of debate waged in the house today over the proposition of the gentleman from Indiana, and when adjournment was taken Mr Holman had so far receded from the strict spirit of his resolution as to ask that the previous question be reconsidered in order that he might consider the advisability of tomorrow accepting an amendment modifying the sweeping declaration of the second clause of the resolution

In the house this morning Mr. Holman stated that on reflection he considered his retrenchment resolution sufficiently comprehensive and therefore withdrew his motion to reconsider the vote by which the previous question was ordered A yea and nay vote on the resolution followed.

The first resolution was adopted, 125 to [illegible]

AN OLD PISTOL.

But It Went Off, Burying a Bullet in a Child's Leg.

It was an old rusty pistol that went off and buried a bullet in the leg of the six-year-old boy of William Bishop, of Elm street, in Nebraska, but probably it was a kind providence that sped the bullett from a fatal course and saved the little fellow's life. The pistol had been laid by and forgotten for years and it remained for this innocent to be the target of the twenty-two calibre cartridge ball it contained. Dr. George B. Stemen extracted the bullet and the boy is doing well today.

Our winter stays right with us.

No state in the union has abler representatives in the United States senate than Indiana. The democracy of the state are proud of Voorhees and Turpie.

It is said, in a telegram from Washington, that President Harrison has decided to appoint Hon John H Baker, of Goshen, Ind., as solicitor of the treasury.

Who will the democratic and republican nominees for governor in Indiana this year? is a question that is assuming considerable proportions in this state just now.

Politics is lively in Louisiana. The people's party has decided to put a state ticket in the field, while the democrats and republicans already have two tickets for each party.

Evansville young ladies are taking advantage of leap year to boycott young men who, during 1891, flocked by themselves and held aloof from theater parties and ice cream orgies.

Governor Boies, of Iowa, is looming up as a presidential candidate. The democratic state central committee of that state have decided to present his name as a candidate to the national convention.

Brazil stands next to the United States in the number of immigrants received during the past year. Notwithstanding her disturbed condition, her immigration will run up to 200,000, mostly from Italy, Portugal and Spain. The new government holds out greater inducements even than were offered under the empire. It pays part of the passage money, gives land on easy terms, guarantees employment and relieves from military service for a number of years, and it endeavors to keep its promises.

Of the planets visible this month Venus is the most brilliant, having at last emerged from under cover of the sun's rays and wrested the championship from giant Jupiter, which has been the reigning prince of the planets for many months. Her stay above the horizon after sunset is yet rather short, but is gradually increasing, and the queen of the planets will soon have reached so far from the sun that she will be shining a sparkling diamond in the sky long after twilight has ended. She is now in the constellation Capricornus, the goat.

The reasons assigned for holding the democratic state convention at such an early date as April 14 are that experience has shown that it is impossible to push and complete the organization by counties, townships and precincts until the state ticket is in the field. It also gives abundant time for animosities to die out and the sore places of defeated candidates to heal up after the convention and before the election, leaving the party in good fighting trim at the opening of the campaign. The basis of representation for the state convention was fixed at one delegate for each 200 votes cast for Cleveland in 1888, which will give a convention of 1,300 delegates. The appointment of a treasurer and executive committee was left to Chairman Taggart.

The deadlock in the Iowa senate was broken yesterday. As decided on, the republican caucus committee, in its report of candidates for minor offices, disregarded the claim of Engle, (Ind.) The lieutenant governor, at the opening, announced a change in his position. Heretofore he has held that the votes of a majority of the members-elect were necessary to choose permanent officers and he modified this by holding that only a majority of a quorum was necessary. The senate then proceeded to vote for secretary. The republicans voted for Cliff, and Engle for Kennedy, while the democrats refrained from voting. The lieutenant governor however caused a number of their names to be recorded as present, and then announced that Cliff was elected. The democrats protested, but were powerless. Senator Brower, (Rep.) voted with the democrats for W. F. Conkling for assistant secretary, electing him.

OUR PUMA HUNTERS.

They Return From Leipsic After Slaying the Terrible Monsters—Graphic Description of the Hunt.

A special car arrived on the Nickel Plate from the east today and attracted a good deal of attention at the depot. Besides sundry boxes without labels the contents consisted of hunting accoutrements of many descriptions and a few, more or less, of Fort Wayne citizens, in the guise of hunters. While an awe-struck crowd stood looking on at the removal of the gattling guns from one end of the car, the appearance of the human freight at the other was equally as attractive. What did it all mean? There was Hon R. C Bell, F L Brown, J. W. Pearse, A J Nicholls, J W Fahnstock, Jim Fields, Henry Fischer, M M Slattery, George Brown, Phillip Lindlag, W. R. Durfee, Bob Douglass, Charlie Miller, Herman Berghoff, J. C M Baker, Rink Mergel, Charlie Weller and many others filing off the platform and making a bee line for a lunch room. What did it all mean? Simply this, the Fort Wayne delegation had returned tired and hungry from the puma hunt. The warfare against the savage animals known as pumas, which had been going on in the Ohio district near Leipsic, and the killing of the beasts, has been full of sensational and blood-curdling incidents, and the faithful accounts of the chase and eventual slaying of the monsters, as given in The Sentinel, have been perused with anxious interest. These then were the men who had become so excited over the thrilling accounts that they organized and joined the army of hunters, who, for several days and nights, made the united effort to exterminate these monsters, which had been such a menace to the lives of man and beast. Anybody who has read the history of this "puma hunt" from the time it begun until its end, will remember how those who did not desert the party lingered about the swamps and woodlands in their search, exposing their lives to danger every minute they did so. Notwithstanding the long siege they went through and the active part they took in the hunt, the Fort Wayne party felt buoyant in spirits and bore their fatigue as though they were used to it.

Mr. Bell, whose sole ambition seemed at this moment to be to dispatch a railroad sandwich at two bites and swallow a cup of coffee during the operation, bestowed upon the youthful lion tamer and hunter of The Sentinel a Chauncey Depew smile as he found time between bites and swallows to say: "Yes, we've arrived home from the puma hunt. Greatest hunt I ever saw. Fact is [in aspirated and confidential tones] I never before hunted for bigger game than birds. I remember once when I went on a quiet hunt and shot quail out of season, but it was nothing so grand as this. You see it was on my own farm near Muncie. Quail were thick, and as I walked over my ground covey after covey of the feathered beauties never moved as I passed by. They seemed to know that quail season wasn't in and mocked me. It made me desperate, so I just went back to the house, got my gun and made up my mind to have some of those birds that absolutely refused to get out of the way. Well, I soon had a ——"

"But Mr. Bell, the puma hunt," interrupted the reporter.

"Ah, yes, I am digressing. How much do you want, a column and a half? Well, we started from Fort Wayne after dark fearing that people might laugh at us. Jim Farrell, day clerk at the Wayne, who did not have the honor of being one of our crowd of professional shooters, facetiously made the suggestion that we take with us gattling guns, four pounds of powder, a blanket apiece to keep the bracing swamp air in a subdued mood and several cases of other good ammunition. We took all of the aforesaid, and added a few quinine capsules for fear some of us might lose our grip. Our distinguished party had expected to be met by a brass band at the depot and escorted to a hotel but alas, everybody seemed to be out to the puma hunt except the railroad agent, and there was not so much as a sighing echo of the defeated Campbell boom to remind us that we were trodding the snow covered clay of the Buckeye state. We hunted for the mayor in order that Messrs. Marmaduke Slattery, Jim Fields, Phil Lindlag and J. W. Fahnstock might warble out upon the night air under his window the soul-stirring strains of that sweet ballad, "The Old Canteen," but it was learned that the mayor, too, had joined the great hunt. We therefore set aside all matters of light importance and proceeded without delay to unload our paraphernalia for the expedition."

At this juncture Mr Bell was summoned by a messenger to his office so the interview had to be dropped, but the reporter investigated by questioning and cross questioning other members of the party with good results. J. C M. Baker had a small brass cannon and a paper cap pistol. He believed that he could frighten one of the animals with this formidable battery and then run it down. It is understood that one of the wheels of J. C. M.'s little cannon sunk affectionately into the mire and delayed the expedition fully a minute and a half. J. W. Pearse had himself surrounded with seven keen bladed knives. He longed for a hand to hand struggle with the beasts. In his boyhood days he used to climb the Allieghenies before breakfast and kill a catamount or two before breakfast. W. R. Durfee had his cool nerve with him but his friends, Dan Campbell and John Brown, armed with small revolvers, followed trembling in his footsteps. They said the Calhoun street shooting gallery was good enough for them. William McPhail, who had been out on many hunts for carnivorous animals, tried to subdue their fears and said: "Now if you get close to one of the varmints hold his eye and then let him have it," while Mr Durfee added sympathizingly that the entire A. O. U. L organization at Fort Wayne would see that they were laid away with all honors if anything should happen to either of them. Bob Douglass was detailed to take charge of one of the gatling guns, so not being able to handle his one hundred and fifty dollar Winchester too, he handed it over to Herman Berghoff whose only weapon was a blunderbuss. J W Fahnstock, Rink Mergel and Charlie Weller had prepared themselves for the hunt by putting on suits of steel armor, and being the best protected for the affray they were placed at the head of the column in charge of the other gattling gun. The aides of both these guns were Messrs Henry Fisher, Jim Fields George Brown, Frank Mungovan, Chas Volland, Dick Townsend, Theodore Gotsch, Dr. Mungon, Ed Orff, Lopes Thome, Henry Hartman, Bob Dreibelbiss, Elmer Leonard, Mike Belger, Charlie Bulger, Otto Gross, Frank Tolan, Will Geiger, Otto Klinkenberg, George Richards, Josh Williams, Dan McKendry, jr., Pat McDonald 'Sandy' Drummond and Tony Spindel. Each of the aides was distinguished by a pretty scarlet sash, a tin sword with the word "steel" embossed on its side, and a target rifle. "This is only a bluff," explained Lieutenant Hall, to one of the party, "to show the natives around here that they must step aside and let us pass first. We want the pumas and don't want seven hundred men to stand between us and them. These aides, you understand, won't do any fighting. When the firing begins they are to make a dash for the rear ranks and leave such brave men as myself and Col Bell to do the commanding and a few of the other brave ones to do the fighting."

Joe Douglas got the first glimpse of a puma. It was two hundred yards away and seemed to be preparing to spring toward the lines. The gatling guns were swung into position and volley after volley sent in with deadly effect. The object rolled over. A. J. Nicholls with a body guard, was sent to bring in the prize, but to their amazement they found only a log riddled with bullets. As the swamp was being approached, Commander Bell had the hunters formed into detachments in order to cover more territory. Major Higgins, the postmaster, had charge of one detachment, but he had not been gone long when he rejoined the middle division. He was not alone. Two of his soldiers dragged a yellowish looking animal to the feet of Commander Bell, and making a salute, the major straightened up proudly and said. "Commander, see, I have slain one of the pumas. A bullet from my trusty 15 bore flintlock, which descended to me as an heirloom of the Higgins ancestry, pierced the heart of the beast and laid him dead at my feet."

"Why, you goose," said Lieutenant Hall, "you have killed some farmer's fine shepard dog." The major fainted dead away. The chase was full of such incidents. For instance, John Brown was found nosing around the commissary when he had no right to, and narrowly escaped lynching. George Richards got stuck waist deep in the bog and a yoke of oxen had to be procured to pull him out. Duke Slattery had a narrow escape from one of the pumas. Frank Mungovan was so small that he got lost. Frank Baker forgot about the puma and went after larger game. Louis Heilbronner got into conversation with a pretty rosy-cheeked country lassie and said that the pumas might "go to grass" for all he cared. He deserted the party. It is enough to say that the puma hunt came to an end and that both the lions were killed by members of the Fort Wayne party, but the reporter was unable to find out to which ones the honor is due. Everybody claimed to be the hero and as every one of them has an ear or foot or some other part of the animals as trophies to back their assertion, the reader can give the honor to whom he or she chooses.

It was a great puma hunt!

LATER.

A portion of the party who had become disconnected from the ranks by penetrating the depths of the caves where the pumas were finally run down, arrived home later in the day on a big hand-car. They were O. L. Perry, Jim Runyan, Ben Harper, George Loesch, Dr. J. M. Kells, Conductor W. L. Benedict, of the Pittsburg, W. J. Lonergan, the Pittsburg machinist; Jim Dormer and Henry Meyer. It was learned from the party that Perry's poodle, "Jay Gould," and the largest male puma had a bloody conflict in which Jay made a conquest. W. J. Lonergan is the man who was detailed to search for the missing party and discovered them in the cave, which is said to be unfathomable and full of mysterious surroundings. A party will be formed to explore the cave later.

William Maze, of Huntington county, recently died, and in making a settlement of his estate, it was discovered that he married Mary Sales of Wayne county, forty-two years ago. The marriage was an arbitrary one, and immediately after the ceremony Maze disappeared and his wife never again met him. The Wayne county records show the marriage but no divorce, but it is known that thirteen years prior to his death, in 1888, Mrs Maze lived as the wife of Benjamin Wisler, of Wayne. It is supposed they were married by the Friends' ceremony, and that Mrs Maze considered herself legally separated from Maze. If there was no divorce she will inherit part of Maze's estate.

REV. G. H. SIMS.

The Pastor of the Christian Church Will go to Wichita, Kas.

Rev G H Sims, the pastor of the Christian church in this city, has decided to accept the call extended to him some time ago to become pastor of the Christian church at Wichita, Kas and will preach his first sermon at that city on Sunday, January 31st.

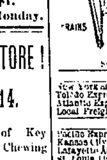

REV. G. H. SIMS.

The congregation at Wichita is larger than the one in this city and will afford Rev Sims more of an opportunity to display his brilliant talents. He has been pastor of the church in this city for several years and was popular with everybody. He and his family will leave for a brief visit at the home of his father, near Cleveland, Ohio, prior to their departure for their new home.

A WEALTHY WOMAN'S WILL.

She Was Without Near Kin and Gave Millions to Church and Charity.

Mrs. Mary Macrae Stuart, of 871 Fifth avenue, New York, owned a trifle over $5,000,000 in money and property, and consequently there was great interest in her will. And she made what the boys call "a yaller good 'un." New York smiles to find that while the lawyer, Samuel J. Tilden, failed to draw a will that would stick, this old lady has not only kept in perfect accord with the law, but satisfied almost everybody, which is far more difficult.

MRS. M. M. STUART.

She first hunted up all her relatives—descendants of her mother's brothers and sisters, all in the third and fourth generations of the Wilsons, Macraes and Fergusons—and gave them from $20,000 to $50,000 each, $850,000 in all to the thirteen. Her husband's few relatives were supposed to have been provided for at his death many years ago. She gave nearly as much in private bequests to friends, including $30,000 to Rev. Dr. John Hall, $10,000 to Dr. James McCosh, of Princeton, and $5,000 each to his children. After "remembering" every friend and relative she still had $4,000,000 to dispose of. This she divided among churches and charities and educational institutions, and this division is what excites greatest interest.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art and American Museum of Natural History had $50,000 each in the will as drawn, but when those institutions were opened on Sunday she struck out the devise. To the Lenox library she gave $300,000 in cash and all her magnificent collection of paintings, worth at least $300,000 more, on the sole condition that the gallery in which they are placed shall not be opened on Sunday. It is to be called the "Robert L. Stuart Collection," in honor of her husband, who gathered the paintings.

The will was drawn by the late Judge Hooper C. Van Vorst. Among the important bequests were $75,000 to the University of New York, $50,000 to Princeton college, $25,000 each to the Cancer hospital and Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, $250,000 each to the American Bible society, Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian church, the home missions of the same, and a variety of missions and hospitals. The total to missions, ministers, churches and charities is over $3,300,000, and almost every one of prominence in New York and New Jersey gets something, the Presbyterians being most favored, as that was her church.

Two Tales from the Sea.

Seafaring men frequently have novel experiences. One of the fishermen of the schooner Canopus, while at work on the Georges banks recently, thought he had hooked a particularly large fish. When he got his catch to the surface of the water he was horrified to see a quantity of human hair attached to an object which investigation showed was a large stone. No one has been able to explain how the hair got there, although medical men have declared that it is the genuine article. Another experience which several vessels have had, without profit, is the sighting of the derelict schooner W. G. Sargent in midocean. No one has yet been able to bring her into port, although she has nearly $25,000 worth of mahogany in her hold.

The Panama Canal Boomers.

Public opinion in Panama seems to incline to the opinion that the big canal enterprise will eventually be taken up by the United States government, and this the papers there affect to believe would be the best thing that could happen, if France will not again take hold of it. In Panama the people pretend to despise the Nicaragua canal scheme, and many persons there are said to be of the opinion that the enterprise was only started to force the Panama waterway into the hands of the United States. The Isthmus papers are particularly energetic in publishing paragraphs tending to show that the Nicaragua scheme is only being pushed sufficiently to cause it to continue to be regarded as a live issue.

Countess Tolstoi Greatly Beloved.

It is not surprising that the poor people of Russia are all said to be "lovers of the Countess Tolstoi." She is in the habit of giving periodical receptions for the benefit of the starving peasants, all of whom the countess is wont to speak of as her sons and daughters. To these receptions people come from miles around, and after inspecting the pictures of the saints which adorn the wall and praying to them they depart, leaving contributions on a large table in the center of the room. These the countess causes to be promptly distributed, and in this way she probably does more real good than any woman Russia has ever produced.

All evil shuns the light; all good courts it. It is a homage which even the worst men pay to goodness that they strive to hide their lack of it, and pretend to share in it whenever such pretense is possible.

La Grippe!

The tendency of this disease toward pneumonia is what makes it dangerous. La Grippe requires precisely the same treatment as a severe cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of severe colds. This remedy effectually counteracts the tendency of the disease to result in pneumonia, provided that proper care be taken to avoid exposure when recovering from the attack. Careful inquiry among the many thousands who have used this remedy during the epidemics of the past two years has failed to discover a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. CINDERS OF NEWS.

The Wonderful Tripod at Chicago—News Gathered From the Local Industrial Fields.

What is known in Chicago as the "tripod" is that maze of tracks, sidings, switches and frogs lying between Stewart avenue on the south, Sixteenth street on the east and the canal on the west, forming a triangle. Every inch of this piece of ground is occupied by steel rails, crossing each other so as to form a network of tracks which has no equal on the American continent. Over a dozen railways center in this wonderful space, included in the number being the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago, and a count made some time ago showed that in one day 1,063 engines, 1,202 passenger coaches and 4,825 freight cars passed over the tracks. Since that time it is estimated that the number has been increased nearly a third by the increased traffic of all the lines which go to form the tripod. Railroading in that part of Chicago is a very serious affair and that it is accomplished without a multitude of accidents and loss of life and property is the wonder of the age. New roads are constantly being constructed and as they cannot gain an independent right-of-way into Chicago they secure the right to run in over the lines which already have an entrance, thus increasing the number of trains which have to go through this wonderful "tripod." The Chicago and Alton and the Burlington use the Pittsburg tracks, while the St. Charles Air Line and the Western Indiana tracks are used by eight or ten other roads. This immense business requires a system of tracks which is fearfully complicated and the number of trains which meet at the crossings sometimes results in a bad tangle, to say the least. The railways have at various times employed eminent engineers to study up a plan which would better the condition of affairs in the tripod, but not until lately did they agree upon one. After much discussion it was decided to adopt the Westinghouse electro-pneumatic interlocking switch and signal system, placing the main building and machinery at the railroad crossing at Stewart avenue and Grove street. The plan adopted, which was devised by E. S. Corthell, will necessitate the erection at each of the three crossings of a pneumatic interlocking tower, connected in such a manner so that one tower can signal another regarding the movements of trains. The watchman in the tower at Stewart avenue will be able to handle eighty-one single switches, twenty-two double slip switches and eighty-four signals. In the power house will be a dynamo to operate the signal valves. The tripod will be illuminated by arc lights, while all the signal lamps will be lighted by incandescent electric lights. The contract for this wonderful piece of work has just been awarded to the Union Switch and Signal company and it is to be completed by the first of October. The Pennsylvania company has at its terminal in Jersey City a similar system as the above, though constructed upon a smaller scale and with less levers. The pneumatic machine at the tripod will have forty-eight levers, all operated by one man. The buildings will be constructed of handsome pressed brick and fully equipped with everything that will facilitate the business of handling the traffic at the crossing.

CAR COUPLERS.

In December last fifteen car-coupler patents were issued, of which four were for couplers which had the principal features of the car-coupler recommended by the master car-builders. An article on this subject, which appeared in the last issue of the Engineering News, says: "The first and greatest need in car-couplers today is uniformity, not only in the contour lines, but in the knuckles, and in the position and direction of motion of the unlocking lever, so that either in the night or in the day, a brakeman can know which way to move the lever to uncouple the car. The second need is strength and durability. The weight and tractive power of locomotives, the capacity of cars, the length of trains, the speed and the suddenness of stops, are all steadily and rapidly increasing, and the result of all is increased strains on the drawgear. There is still a third important requirement for the successful car-coupler of which inventors are very apt to lose sight. It is that the coupler shall be absolutely reliable. In the railway service, to get out of order is a crime only less serious than breakage. To secure reliability, the greatest possible simplicity is required."

PRESIDENT NEWELL WILL RESIGN.

A dispatch to THE SENTINEL from Toledo this morning says that John W. Newell will retire from the general management of the Lake Shore company as soon as he gets everything in first class working order. It is stated that the recent promotions were only a step in that direction.

BRIEF MENTION.

Passenger Engineer Skinner is so ill as to be confined to his bed.

Charles Stapleford, a car inspector in the Nickel Plate yards, is seriously ill.

Switchman Watkins, of the Nickel Plate, is at work again, after an illness of a week.

L. R. Bookwalter, a machinist, was taken suddenly ill in the Pittsburg shops yesterday.

Foreman T. J. Rodabaugh will next week bring his fine trotting colt in from the country.

Louis Gans, who was quite ill for over a week, has recovered. He is employed in the Pittsburg shops.

Conductor Makepeace and Fireman Droeger, of the Nickel Plate, have recovered from la grippe.

Mr. Peckham, formerly manager of the Pacific tea store, has taken a position at the electric works.

George F. Hess, the Pittsburg machinist, badly sprained his wrist yesterday. He will be off duty several days.

Joseph Carey returned to his forge in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop this morning. He had been on the sick list.

A. Zimmerman this morning resigned a position in the Pittsburg lumber yards to take one with the American wheel works.

Master Mechanic G. L. Potter went east last evening in the interest of the Pennsylvania company. He will return tomorrow.

On Sunday next the Pennsylvania company will put a new daylight train between Washington, D. C., and Boston via Philadelphia.

P. Lopper and C. Aumann, of the Pittsburg planing mills, reported for duty this morning, having recovered from their sickness.

The Lake Shore has a genuine freight blockade all along its line. The Wabash is turning three to four hundred car-loads of grain over to the Lake Shore every twenty-four hours, and there are no indications that this rush of business will abate before navigation opens.

The following gentlemen have taken positions as firemen on the Nickel Plate: A. A. Wolf, Ben West, J. A. Buff, D. R. Fulton and M. E. Pettit.

James Hughes, the popular fireman on the Nickel Plate, has been promoted to engineer and is now at Stony Island running a switch engine.

Four of the children of Conductor Metsinger, of the Grand Rapids road, are ill with diphtheria. Mr. and Mrs. Metsinger live on Hanna street.

Master Car Builder J. A. Graham will leave tomorrow for Allegheny City, Pa., and will take his family with him, combining business and pleasure.

The Chicago and Rock Island has just promoted to chief clerk in the general freight office Miss Amy Loomly. She has been in this department for some years.

Engineer J. E. Long, Firemen J. Burns and G. Mitchell, of the Pittsburg, are on the sick list. Fireman G. Huber, of the same road, has recovered from a sickness.

The Rock Island is sending out a neat little pamphlet of instructions and information for people desiring to attend the Knights Templar conclave at Denver this year.

John Deegan returned to work in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop yesterday, but was again taken sick and failed to report this morning. He is afflicted with la grippe.

The car famine is over and now the question is how to furnish power to move those already loaded with grain. Every railway company in the west is short of locomotives.

Samuel Murphy and J. Noesler, of the Pittsburg paint shop, have returned to work after a brief experience with la grippe. The former is the foreman of the east paint shop.

A prominent railway official is of the opinion that heavy ten-wheel engines should not be run over a fifty or sixty pound rail. He says the heavy engines are liable to break the rails, when a wreck is sure to follow. He cited five cases where accidents were caused in this way.

The earnings of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad for the first week of January were $568,636, an increase as compared with the corresponding week last year of $114,403. During the six months and one week, dating from July 1, the earnings amount to $18,121,671, an increase of $2,472,017.

David Kingsley, the dissipated ex-Fenian, of Kokomo, who has fallen heir to $42,000 by the death of his mother, in Ireland, and who fled from Howard county upon hearing that a guardian was about to be appointed, has returned to his old quarters. Although assured of immunity from punishment, Kingsley refuses to go to Ireland. Kingsley is a man of education, but unreliable. Some years ago while in a Huntington county asylum, he wrote a caustic article relative to the management, which was published in the Huntington Democrat. I. J. Garretson, superintendent, sued the editor and Kingsley for libel, and as Kingsley was worthless the burden fell upon the editor.

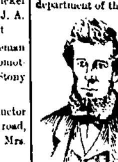

The Huntington Herald says: "Mrs. John Zent arrived from Fort Wayne last evening and is stopping with her sister, Mrs. Frank Hoagland. She will visit Colonel Zent's family at Roanoke before returning home.—H. K. Parry and wife went to Fort Wayne at 10 o'clock today. Mr. Parry will return to Ohio from there, but Mrs. Parry will return to this city and continue her visit with the Raymond family and others."

The Goshen Times says: "Miss Kittie Kensell, of this city, went to Fort Wayne this forenoon where she will remain a few days with her parents and from whence she will go to New York city."

FLOWERS BY THE MILLION.

The Wonderful Display to Be Made at the Columbian Exposition.

"Father of the Chrysanthemum" and "Old Uncle John" are pet names for John W. Thorpe, chief of the horticultural department of the World's fair of 1893.

JOHN W. THORPE.

He has devoted about thirty years to bringing various flowers to perfection, and within a few weeks past has achieved the biggest success of any man in the exposition business. That is, he has induced Jay Gould, William K. Vanderbilt, George W. Childs and several other millionaires to donate many of their best and rarest plants to the fair.

It goes without saying that this department will be a magnificent success. Experts in that line say it will be the greatest show of fine flowers ever seen in the world. A million pansies, a million roses and uncounted millions of flowers, plants and palms of all climes will be shown. There will be sixteen acres given to this exhibit and ten of them will be on the wooded island on which the mammoth Horticultural building is to stand. The shores of the island will be left wild for scenic effect and the waters around it will be bright with water lilies and other aquatic plants, while the interior will be artistically planted with lilies, rhododendrons, roses and other flowers.

Jay Gould now has the most complete botanic garden in the United States, containing many hundred exotic plants to be seen nowhere else in North America, and of those he agrees to contribute the very finest to the fair. Mr. Thorpe was the organizer of the Society of American Florists, has done much work in his line in England and is known to horticulturists all over the world. When he took up the chrysanthemum it was described as "small and colorless." There are now 2,000 varieties catalogued, with a bewildering variety of shapes and colors. When he took up the carnation there were but three varieties, now there are a thousand. He has been in the business all his life, and his friends are enthusiastic over his success at Chicago.

NO FRIEND OF BRET HARTE'S.

A Californian Who Is Opposed to the Novelist's Existence.

On the first day of January a San Francisco paper published a series of replies by prominent citizens to the general question, "What is the best thing that could happen for California this year?" Jeremiah Lynch (both names highly suggestive) gave this.

As a Californian and a patriot it seems to me that the death of Bret Harte would be the most fortunate happening the annals of 1892 could record. So long as he wields a pen we continue wild and woolly. He is a blot on our evolution, a drag on our civilization. It is true he has given San Francisco a place on the literary atlas of the world, but merely as a local habitation of his dramatis personæ. There is no denying Bret Harte's genius, but he retards immigration. He has excellent style, but he prevents the sale of our raisins. California claret might vie with St. Julien but for "Mr. Hawkins;" our maidens could be introduced to her majesty but for the "Outcasts of Poker Flat."

BRET HARTE.

He has accentuated our earthquakes, emphasized our aborigines, exaggerated our mannerisms and made the "heathen Chinee" romantic. Once dead the world will realize our existence, forget our deficiencies and purchase our products.

Mr. Lynch is a scholar and a member of the last grand jury. He wrote a work on Egyptian travels a few years ago which was published in London. It is, therefore, scarcely necessary to add that his jeremiad on Bret Harte has created a sensation. It is more than likely, however, that he is mistaken. Illinois made her greatest growth in the two decades (1840-60) when all the country was laughing at the "Suckers." South central Indiana had a tremendous boom while Eggleston's novels were selling at their fastest. Real estate in Duluth made a great advance just after Proctor Knott's famous speech. It's ten times better for the world to laugh at a section than not to notice it at all.

Eats Mince Pies at Fourscore.

As he grows older Gladstone grows shorter. He is at present not so tall by two inches as when in his prime. His wife's recipe for mince pies has just been made public, and the fact that the grand old man eats these pies and thrives on them shows that they are good.

Making a Sure Thing of It.

Banjer (to boy)—Take this dress suit up to Wangle and give him this note. He will give you a five dollar bill, which you fetch back to me. (Boy goes and returns.) Well, did you get that five dollar bill?

Boy—No, sir. He said to tell you he couldn't spare it very well to-day, sir.

Banjer—Then why in thunder didn't you fetch back the suit?

Boy—I couldn't very well, sir. He put it on before he read the note.—Clothier and Furnisher.

Overwork Did It.

First Tramp—And what is the matter with Bill Sykes?

Second Tramp—Poor fellow! A victim of overwork.

"Overwork! How's that?"

"Well, Bill always was ambitious, you know, and he tried to do two days' loafing in one day."—Boston Transcript.

+THE + BOSTON + STORE.+

Our Greatest Annual Closing Out SALE of Fall and Winter DRY GOODS, Begins Saturday Morning Next, JANUARY 16th.

A sale with us means a positive SALE of goods at cost or less, and is a business necessity, as we must close out the old to make room for the new. Our early purchases for the spring which we expect to arrive in February, exceed in vo[lume] the purchases of any former season, and we must make room for them in our store, or engage additional store-room. We prefer to make room in our present quarters, by offering such inducements to the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity, as will clean out every dollar's worth of Fall and Winter Goods in our store. THE BOSTON STORE'S annual mid-winter sales are events looked forward to and provided for by the whole population of Allen County, and as far as we know, there has never been a visitor to our store during the sales that was not perfectly satisfied, and our phenomenal business success is sufficient proof that we were. The following are a few of the countless items offered at our sale, and while it is impossible to state everything, we will say that every article in our store is included in the grand mark down:

Notion Department.

1 case 3c Adamantine Pins, 1c a paper.
50,000 best 5c Needles, 3c a paper.
All Buttons, Braids, Elastic, Hooks and Eyes, Hose Supporters, and General Notions at corresponding reductions.
Feather Dress Trimmings, reduced from $1.00 to 75c.
Feather Dress Trimmings, reduced from 75c to 50c.
Our Corsets reduced from 50c to 39c, from 75c to 61c, $1 00 to 78c, and we have several styles at each of those prices to choose from.

Ribbons and Laces.

This department contains so many grades that it is impossible to quote all the changes, but we are certain that everyone interested will be satisfied with sale prices.

Ladies' Muslin Underwear.

As advertised heretofore, we are closing out this department, as we must sacrifice one department for the good of the many, on account of a scarcity of room for more staple goods required in our rapidly growing business.

Our Ladies' Muslin Underwear must not be put upon a par with the ordinary Cheap John trash so generally displayed and advertised at this time of the year, and made only to sell.

Every article was manufactured specially for every day sale, sewed on lock-stitch machines, with Coate's thread, and for quality and finish equal custom-made goods.

The balance of our stock is offered at one-third reduction, and a general idea may be obtained by looking at the display of goods and prices in our window. Goods cheerfully shown.

Handkerchief Department

500 dozen reduced from 3c and 4c to 2 cents.
350 dozen Hem-stitched, Colored Borders, reduced to 3c.
362 dozen Hem-stitched, Colored Borders, reduced from 10c and 12½c to 8 cents.
90 dozen Ladies' Colored Border and Embroidered Handkerchiefs, Hem-stitched, Genuine Belfast Irish Linen, odds and ends of many grades, worth from 20c to 45c, dumped in a box, your choice for 15c. This is a rare opportunity to stock yourselves up with fine goods at a nominal outlay, and we predict a rush at this counter, and as there is a decided choice in the goods, those who come first will fare best.

Underwear Department.

Ladies' Vests and Pants reduced from 25c to 20c.
Ladies' Vests and Pants reduced from 38c to 31c.
Ladies' Ribbed Balbriggan Vests and Pants from 50c to 37½c, and although 50c has been our price, the goods are worth and have been sold at 60c.
